Moslem Thousands Urge Declaration Of War With U.K.

Large Egyptian Political Party Would Label Britons Enemies

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 11 (AP)—Several thousand members of the Moslem Brotherhood of Egypt demanded tonight that Egypt issue a declaration of a state of war with Britain.

The demand was made in a resolution approved by a rally of the Brotherhood, Egypt's second largest political party.

The gathering was in support of the Egyptian Government's recent move to cancel the Anglo-Egyptian 20-year treaty of alliance signed in 1936.

The resolution called on the government to:

Declare a state of war against Britain, declare British forces in the Suez Canal area to be enemy forces, authorize Egyptians to carry arms; rule that no attacks on British forces would be punishable and cease all political and economic relations with Britain.

It also asked that the Government void all concessions to British firms, oust the governor-general of the Sudan, recruit a national guard of 16,000 volunteers and invite Moslems of all the world into a general congress.

(In London, Britain warned Egypt she would be held responsible for preventing mob violence or terrorism against British lives and property.

(A note delivered to the Cairo Government expressed regret that anti-British demonstrations have flared in the capital and Alexandria.)

The Moslem Brotherhood meeting was the climax of a day of demonstrations approving the government's moving to throw Britons out of the Suez Canal area and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

"Down with Britain!" speakers cried.

In contrast with anti-foreign rioting Wednesday, however, the demonstration was kept in hand by strong police detachments and ended without violence.

An appeal for calm was issued by the youth committee of the Wafdist Party, which runs the Egyptian government. The committee deplored the attacks on foreign shops as "a rash action."

All classes of Egyptians appeared lined up behind Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha's move to cancel both the 1899 treaty providing for joint British and Egyptian rule over Sudan, a cotton-growing region of 8,000,000 population, and the 1936 treaty of alliance under which Britain keeps 10,000 troops to defend the Suez Canal.

A government source estimated parliament will complete action Monday on bills to this effect.

Would Revise Treaty

BAGDAD, Iraq, Oct. 11 (Reuters)—Iraq seeks revision of the treaty under which Britain is allowed to station air force units on Iraqi soil, an official statement said tonight.

Premier Nuri Es Said made the request last month while he was in London. The announcement said the premier would take no action before seeking the advice of leading Iraqi statesmen.

The Anglo-Iraq treaty signed in 1930 granted Britain sites for two air bases and the right to maintain forces in their neighborhood. Under the treaty, which was to run until 1955, Iraq undertook to concert defense measures with Britain.

Holiday Said Not Important

WHETHER or not school children of Greater Victoria get a holiday Oct. 22 in connection with the Royal visit will be definitely decided at Monday night's meeting of the Greater Victoria School Board.

J. F. K. English, senior inspector of schools in the area, made this announcement last night.

Mr. English said members of the board had not discussed the holiday issue to date. "I don't think it's important enough," he added.

The school board has permission from the provincial government to proclaim a school holiday. It's now up to the school board to make the decision.

Change Aimed At Delinquents

Premium, dodgers and delinquents will be caught through introduction of one of the recommendations of the hospital insurance inquiry board, Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull confirmed yesterday.

Interim proposals for improvement of the service have been submitted to the minister by S. J. Smith, chairman of the board.

Mr. Turnbull reserved comment on the recommendations until he has discussed them with all members of the board.

The minister will go to Vancouver next week to meet with the board. A statement is expected afterward.

"Most of the recommendations are fairly close to the thinking of the hospital insurance service and my own thinking," said Mr. Turnbull. "I feel confident that we can come to some mutually satisfactory agreement."

U.N. Troops Capture Key Ridge

U.S. 8th ARMY H.Q., Korea, Oct. 12 (Friday) (AP)—U.S. and French troops today overwhelmed the last hold-out peak on "Heart-break Ridge" in the greatest combined assault in a month of heavy fighting in Eastern Korea.

The height dominated a Communist supply route on the eastern front and the Reds had fought doggedly to hold it. But tank-infantry assaults and furious artillery barrages smashed the Communists in their positions, field reports said.

Then the infantry in a night attack swept the last Red defender from the summit.

Thursday the U.S. and French troops fought up the slopes of the ridge, roughly 25 miles north of the 38th Parallel, only to be stopped after advancing but 40 yards.

But with more than 50 allied tanks ranging to the rear and shooting up support areas, the Communist positions became untenable.

In Munsan a dispute over where to draw a neutral zone threatened further delay today in resumption of Korea truce talks.

Ottawa Affair Ordeal

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—White-faced, obviously tired Princess, who had asked for a simple, informal Royal tour, stood for more than an hour tonight to shake hands with a thousand-and-one strangers from Ottawa's officialdom.

It was the government's official reception for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. Members of the Commons and Senate, cabinet ministers, and diplomats and other officials eagerly responded to the invitation to meet the royal couple.

For them, once they met the Princess and the Duke, it was a gala occasion. They were shepherded into the spacious ballroom of the Chateau Laurier—the official meeting was in an ante-room—where refreshments and food were served aplenty. For the Royal couple, it meant standing for approximately an hour and 20 minutes to shake hands with a lot of people they didn't know. They didn't even get a drink.

When the reception was over, they headed to Government House for a buffet supper at 8 p.m.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent, the official hosts, stood with them in the receiving line.

This correspondent, perhaps the 800th in line, found that the Princess looked pale and tired. After meeting some 799 others, she shook hands mechanically and murmured something which sounded like "how do you do."

Other guests, some of whom had seen her yesterday at Government House reception, agreed.

Casual, Relaxed Royal Pair Join in Country-Style Fun

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—The princess and the duke shucked their formal duds tonight and became a couple of plain, down-to-earth squares.

They learned the "Pogey Eight," the "Promenade All," and how to "Dive for the Oyster, Dive for the Pearl."

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip got a bang out of it all.

It was their initiation to the old North American custom of square-dancing, and their teacher was Viscount Alexander, the governor-general.

It took place at a private dance at Rideau Hall, the governor-general's residence. The viscount arranged the dance when he saw the princess in Britain last summer. The governor-general felt this was his "do" in two days of official, public doings. No reporters were present—only a tour official. Photographs were taken by the National Film Board.

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip dressed to suit the occasion. Formal clothing went by the boards.

The princess wore a brown-checked blouse with white Peter Pan collar and cuffs, and a steel-blue flared skirt applique and floral beaded embroidery. Her shoes were cuban-heeled and black.

The duke donned blue jeans and a white-checkered shirt with a red kerchief around his neck. He wore brown suede loafers.

Boat Trip Proves Exciting

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—The Royal couple went cruising on the Ottawa River today and all sorts of things happened.

It wasn't as rugged, maybe, as a previous Royal cruise when one of Princess Elizabeth's ancestors shot the river's Chaudiere Rapids on a raft in 1860, but it definitely had its moments.

A woman reporter fell in the water. A press boat broke down. A chilled Princess stuck bravely to her post on the open deck of a cabin cruiser while a brisk wind whipped around her.

Her sailor husband—his blonde head bare—sat beside her, eating up the river's lore as told by Charlotte Whitton, the little mayor of Ottawa who knows her Ottawa River history.

See also stories on Page 5

The cruise started half an hour late and lasted only half its scheduled hour.

EVIDENT THRILL

It was a raw, clouded day and the Princess was seen to wrap a blanket around her legs, but she and her husband both appeared to get a thrill out of it all—the Rideau Falls tumbling down into the Ottawa, a scantily-clad 12-man canoe crew which raised its paddles in the air in salute, the magnificent panorama which unfolded on the cliffs of the Ottawa side and the low autumn-tinted countryside on the Quebec side.

One group of reporters saw little of the cruise but they did get a laugh. One of their number, Lotta Dempsey of the Toronto Globe and Mail, stepped out as they drifted to shore after the engine went dead. What she thought was land turned out to be water.

Indians To Dance On Float

The first welcome extended to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they arrive here Oct. 21 aboard the destroyer Crusader will be given by a small group of Vancouver Island Indians.

As the warship approaches the C.P.R.'s Inner Harbor docks, the Indians will dance and sing Indian welcome songs from a "welcome float" to be moored a short distance off the Causeway. The platform on which they will perform will rest betwen two moored fishing vessels. The Indians will wear ceremonial dress.

The destroyer is scheduled to reach the outside berth of the C.P.R. docks at 5 p.m.

In days long past many British Columbia coastal Indian tribes followed the welcome float custom as friendly visitors approached the shores of their camps and communities. In those days, however, the welcome float consisted of two war canoes, with a platform of rough cedar planks between.

KEEP CLEAR

Capt. Ronald Newell, Victoria's harbor master and port warden, has asked that pleasure craft stay clear of the welcome float while the Indian ceremony is in progress, and clear of the shipping channel from the breakwater to the Inner Harbor docks at the time of the Crusader's arrival.

It has also been suggested that two Indian war canoes meet the incoming destroyer at the harbor entrance and accompany the warship to the docksite, but no decision has been made in this matter.

Mayor Hooted After Plea For Faith in Government

By T. A. MYERS
Colonist Staff Reporter

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 11.—A plea by Mayor Percy George for faith in the provincial government brought a chorus of derisive laughter from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here Thursday.

The delegates were debating a resolution on municipal per-diem payments to hospitals when Mayor George, retiring U.B.C.M. president, and Vernon Mayor R.T.R.B. Adams, resolutions chairman, tangled.

Mayor George criticized the resolution, urging abolition of the 70-cent-a-day municipal payment.

He said the municipal payments total $825,000 a year, but that the province contributes $1,000,000 on the same basis and also pays $3,250,000 for old-age and other pensioners.

Mayor Grant defended the resolution on the grounds that the per-diem grants imposed double taxation of municipal ratepayers who already were paying B.C.H.I.S. premiums.

He admitted the service was costing the province millions, but, he asked, "why should we subsidize the government?"

Mayor George called on the delegates to have "courage and faith that our leaders are doing what is the best thing. We should go on record as endorsing co-insurance."

He was interrupted by a volley of "no's." And hoots of laughter.

Reeve Charles Schultz asked the chair, "If we have so much confidence in the government, why do we have this convention?"

The convention voted to ask the province to abolish per-diem payments to the B.C.H.I.S., and to revert to making municipal grants directly to individual hospitals.

Lotteries Endorsed

By Colonist Staff Reporter

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 11.—A Vancouver resolution urging legalization of lotteries in aid of charitable organizations and community associations was passed unanimously in the final minutes of the three-day U.B.C.M. convention here.

The resolution would require a change in the Criminal Code of Canada.

Russia Offers Deal on Italy

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP)—Russia sent notes Thursday to the United States, Britain and France agreeing to modify the Italian peace treaty if Italy quits the Atlantic Pact and if the West eases treaty restrictions on Bulgaria, Hungary, Finland and Romania.

One western diplomat predicted that, in view of Russia's reply, the West will go ahead without the Russians on revision of the Italian treaty, possibly causing the Russians to seek some form of retaliation.

The note said Russia would agree to admittance of Italy to the United Nations if Bulgaria, Hungary, Finland and Romania were also admitted.

Break Possible In Cigarettes

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (CP)—Canadian tobacco retailers, worried by increased smuggling of American cigarettes, are considering lowering the price of Canadian-produced cigarettes and absorbing the cut in profit themselves.

Grave Financial State Grips Community Chest

The Community Chest of Greater Victoria is in a grave state of emergency, its president, George E. Whitaker, declared last night.

Total receipts so far from the one-night fund-raising campaign held Oct. 1 are only $151,385. Objective of the campaign was $236,000, the amount estimated to cover the minimum requirements of the chest's member agencies during 1952.

Following a meeting of the board of directors last night, Mr. Whitaker issued the following appeal on behalf of the board to all citizens who were missed during the original canvass:

Mail your donations to Community Chest Headquarters, 1951 Cook Street.

Phone headquarters at B 5121 and ask for your donation to be picked up.

Many homes were missed during the original canvass because of heavy rain which fell during most of the night and because of insufficient canvassers to begin with, the board was told.

Unless the balance of the money—close to $84,000—is raised, welfare work in the community will be seriously set back. Agencies making up the Community Chest are operating on very tight budgets. Any curtailment of money allotted to them means a proportionate cut in the services they can render to the desperately needy whom they serve.

Partly-Repaired Ice Machine Works Better Than Ever Before

"It's amazing!"

That was about all a pleased J. A. Dukowski could say early this morning as he watched the Memorial Arena ice plant make ice faster than it ever did before in its three-year history.

At 10 p.m. yesterday there was an eighth of an inch of ice on the arena floors and the arena manager's crews were busy painting lines. There was no doubt, barring a totally unexpected breakdown, but that there would be an excellent sheet of ice ready for Victoria Cougars and Seattle Ironmen tonight when they step out to open the Pacific Coast Hockey League season in Victoria.

Alfred Tripp, left, paints one of the blue lines in the Memorial Arena as workers get the building in shape for opening the hockey season. First heavy spraying of the ice is given by Art Leadbetter.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

In fact, things were so promising that Mr. Dukowski announced two public skating sessions for tomorrow. Youngsters will get their first chance to don skates this season between 2 and 4 p.m. tomorrow. The second session is billed from 8 to 10 p.m.

ENOUGH FOR WORKOUT

There was also a good chance that Commercial Hockey League teams would have enough ice left to hold their first workouts Sunday morning.

Mr. Dukowski and his engineers could scarcely believe it as the 75-ton ice plant, hitherto deemed insufficient for Victoria needs, built up an ice surface faster than the most optimistic had dared hope. And this in spite of the fact that 2,000 of the 8,000 feet of piping in the brine tank coils had to be cut out when the coils were found to be full of leaks.

COILS RAISED

Credit for the improvement was given to Fred Baggs of Yarrows Ltd., who was in charge of repairs. At his suggestion, the coils were lifted a foot off the brine-tank floor and it is believed that this is responsible for the new speed of ice making.

Meanwhile, work is going ahead on the auxiliary brine tank and there is every reason to hope that there will be no further serious trouble with the ice plant this season.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Old Man Inflation has us all by the gullet, friends, but we still have time to wriggle from his grasp and seek refuge in barter.

Say you have shot a five-prong sidehill gouger, and I have gathered a bucket of edible barnacles. Both of us have more than we need. Let's do business.

Hallelujah to the free food stall lady, because she filled a lot of empty cupboards. I hope she keeps on doing it.

But how about the [illegible] who are too rich to starve and too poor to eat?

I tried robbing the clothes budget to pay the food budget, but it didn't work. When a kind old gentleman accosted me on the street and offered me a quarter for a bowl of hot soup, I decided it was time to hike down to the bargain basement and buy myself some new overalls on credit. That was a mistake. I could have used that soup.

I tried some novel foods like nettle stew, beer, bracken-top asparagus, skunk-cabbage roots and turnips stolen from a neighbor's garden. They were delicious, but they didn't work. Not enough calories.

I devised a patent recipe for Nutburgers. It went as follows: Mash a dozen potatoes, add a tablespoon of milk and a tablespoon of margarine, one egg and three tablespoons of powdered peanuts. Fry. Eat.

This pretty much of proteins and carbohydrates seemed at first to be the answer to the problem of the vanishing dollar, but it didn't work. Even peanuts cost money nowadays.

I tried to register for unemployment insurance money, but they said I couldn't draw it while I was working.

Just when I was about to commit suicide by munching a platter of poisoned lentils, a husky little voice whispered "Barter." I tried it, and it worked.

* * *

The plan which has kept me and my neighbors alive began in a simple way.

One night my fishing friend staggered across the road under the weight of a large and very ugly sea bass. He claimed he had snagged it with a patent gaff at Hall's, along with 13 others which were cluttering up his living room to such an extent that he had to give them away or use them for fertilizer.

"What about it?" he demanded. "Shall I give it to you, or the cat?"

I had already eaten my cat. My reply was to clamp my teeth in the fish and run into the kitchen with it, growling and hissing.

The next day some other friends arrived with two loaves of home-made bread which I contracted to buy on a hire-purchase basis, paying for them with six months' indentured labor.

Starvation had thinned the ranks of our household, so there was one more loaf than I needed. I rushed across the road with it and bartered it for another fish. I cut the fish in half and bartered the head half for a potato. I cut the potato in half and bartered half of it for a carrot. In this way I obtained food enough to last me for a week.

Since then, I have drawn up barter contracts with a neighbor who keeps chickens, a neighbor who has a hand loom, a neighbor who has a quince tree and a neighbor who grows mushrooms under the sink. Now all of us are eating, and all of us are wearing clothes.

Barter works. In every day, in every way, we are getting barter and barter.

In the Punishment Camp for Columnists, they would send a man to the firing squad for a pun like that, but what did I have to lose?

Lifetime Driving Ban Urged by Inquest Jury

A coroner's jury yesterday brought in a verdict of accidental death in connection with the highway death of Arthur Walden, 57, and recommended that the driver of the other car, Mrs. H. J. Pendray, have her license suspended for life.

Mr. Walden died as a result of injuries received Sept. 2 on the Sooke Road when his small English car was in a head-on collision with one driven by Mrs. Pendray.

The jury made the recommendation "due to the ill health" of Mrs. Pendray, who was on the way home from a treatment at Rest Haven when the accident occurred.

Most of the evidence was heard last Sept. 11 when the inquest adjourned to wait for the recovery of Mrs. Pendray, who had shock and minor injuries as a result of the collision.

The 62-year-old woman said yesterday she "blacked out" just before the collision and did not remember the accident.

EARLIER MISHAP

Earlier evidence disclosed that Mrs. Pendray's car side-swiped another driven by Tressa J. Speed before colliding with Mr. Walden's car.

Dr. W. H. Roberts, who attended Mrs. Pendray while she was in hospital, testified that she suffered from an internal condition which could be responsible for the blacking out.

Mr. Walden died several days after the accident of a heart failure caused by a blood clot which could have been a result of a blow received in the collision, according to earlier testimony of Dr. G. D. Ross McNeely, Royal Jubilee Hospital pathologist.

Salmon Pack Sets Record

As commercial salmon fishing operations near season's end, Federal Fisheries officials report B.C.'s salmon pack to date is past the 1,815,866 case mark. The total is a six-year record to this time of the year.

London Paper Doubts Policy

LONDON, Oct. 11 (Reuters).—The influential London Times said Thursday it doubts whether the United Nations or the United States government now have any clear policy on conducting the Korean fighting and cease-fire talks. "Military tactics seem to have been unrelated to any overriding policy," The Times says. "Indeed, it may be seriously doubted whether the U.N. as a whole or even the U.S. government has now any clear policy at all."

U.S. Congressional Body Shelves Seaway Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (CP). — United States legislative action on the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway project which Canada is determined to carry out alone if necessary was postponed Thursday, probably until early next year.

The House of Representatives public works committee, which last July pigeon-holed bills designed to give U.S. authorities the go-ahead on the project, apparently shelved a new seaway bill for two months at least.

President Truman said he was sorry the committee decided to delay action.

The committee was told by ... (D.-N.Y.) that no meeting on the legislation will be called until after Jan. 1.

VOTE EXPECTED

The committee had been expected to vote Friday, but Buckley said that a meeting was impossible because some committee members had out-of-town speaking engagements.

Behind the decision may be one or both of the following points:

1. The committee is reported to be about equally split on favoring or rejecting the measure, and there was no assurance that a majority would vote for it now.

2. It wants to wait and see what the Canadian Parliament may do this fall.

Hope of Aid Dwindles In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP). — Hopes that the United States would participate in the building of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway project dwindled Thursday and it appeared that Canada would have to build it alone.

This was the view of officials here following action by a House of Representatives committee in Washington to postpone a meeting on draft legislation to authorize the $700,000,000 project until after Jan. 1.

President Truman had told Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent that he would approve of an all-Canadian construction only as a "second best" choice, if Congress did not soon approve of joint Canada-U.S. participation.

The committee's action leaves Mr. Truman free to approve of the second choice.

Apple Growers To Get Grant

KELOWNA, B.C., Oct. 11 (CP). The Federal Government will give British Columbia apple growers $1,200,000 to alleviate 1950 losses caused by frost, it was learned today.

A. K. Lloyd, president of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., said in a telegram from Ottawa the government had agreed to pay the amount through special order-in-council.

Hamilton Stores Breaking Price-Fixing Agreements

HAMILTON, Oct. 11 (CP)—Some Hamilton merchants Thursday announced sharp reductions in merchandise usually sold at prices fixed by the manufacturer. The move followed the announcement in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of parliament Tuesday that the government plans legislation forbidding manufacturers to fix the retail prices of their products.

In a half-page newspaper advertisement, Right House, a large department store which also has an outlet in Brantford, Ont., announced price reductions in a long list of price-fixed merchandise. The advertisement said the store was breaking an agreement with manufacturers. Smaller ads by other retailers did not refer to price-fixing, merely announcing mark-downs on certain merchandise.

Some advertisements said there will be no more fixed prices.

Top Scientists Head Hush-Hush Stations

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—A pair of top Canadian research scientists will head two of Canada's hush-hush experimental stations where secret defense experiments are being stepped up.

The defense department announced today that Dr. Hugh Massey Barrett, 43, a chemical expert, is returning from England to resume duties as chief superintendent of the Suffield experimental station at Ralston, Alta.

At the same time, Dr. Donald B. W. Robinson, 34, a Rhodes scholar and another research chemist, has been appointed superintendent of the defense research northern laboratory at Churchill, Man.

Dr. Robinson is a native of Moncton, N.B., and Dr. Barrett is from Moose Jaw, Sask.

Equipment and discoveries high on the classified list are tested at the two stations but details of research are secret. It is known, however, that much of the work at Suffield is of a chemical nature.

Dr. Barrett was chief superintendent at Suffield before going to England two years ago on loan to the United Kingdom ministry of supply.

Dr. Robinson is a graduate of Mount Allison and McGill Universities. He joined the Suffield station in 1942 and engaged in research there until 1946 when he went to England on a Rhodes scholarship.

Lie Urges U.N. Pledges Of Anti-Aggression Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 11 (AP) — Secretary-general Trygve Lie called upon all U.N. members Thursday to promise enough armed power and economic resources to deter any country from aggression.

"In the present state of the world," Lie said in a review of world conditions, "it is of the utmost importance for the preservation of peace that the United Nations should be assured of sufficient armed power and economic resources for collective security to deter any nation from embarking upon armed aggression anywhere.

"At the same time, we must never lose sight of the fact that this strong collective security system is being organized for the purpose of preventing war, not waging it."

Lie made his comments in his annual report to the U.N. general assembly which will convene November 6 in Paris for its sixth regular session.

Canadians Among Crew Of Treasure Schooner

GOSPORT, England, Oct. 11 (Reuters) — Three young Canadians will sail from here soon for the China Seas with a schooner expedition seeking the lost pirate treasure of Captain Kidd.

The Canadians are Geoffrey Taylor, 22, of Montreal, John Fry, 20, of Montreal, and Ian Rogers, 21, of Toronto.

They have a tattered parchment map which they believe will lead them to a tiny island where legend says the 17th century pirate hid gold and gems worth $4,200,000.

The 120-ton schooner La Morna is under charter for six months. She will weigh anchor Oct. 21.

INTERNATIONAL

The Canadians signed on with the crew organized by New Zealander George Shepherd. The rest of the crew includes eight Britons, a German, an Italian and a Greek captain.

Plans for the hunt began last January when an antique-fancier, Mrs. Elizabeth Dick, discovered the chart under a false bottom in the drawer of an old desk.

Legend says Kidd managed to pass a single chart of his China Seas cache out while he was awaiting the hangman in London.

Oddities

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP) — Tradition came close to crumbling Wednesday night at the University of Toronto's Hart House. A woman reporter was the cause.

Blonde Denise Richards of the Varsity, University paper, was assigned to cover a debate at this university men's club.

A woman has never been admitted to a Hart House debate since they began 27 years and 100 debates ago.

Speaker J. H. G. Morden said Miss Richards was a member of the press. Therefore her sex didn't matter. Because of that he didn't have to declare her sex masculine or neuter, as one member suggested.

Reporter Richards stayed, blushing.

CALGARY, Oct. 11 (CP)— Vera Maclennan of Calgary hit the jackpot Wednesday—a $48 World Series pool.

Her associates — perhaps slightly miffed—gave her the winnings in pennies — 35 pounds of them.

To make matters worse the 4,800 pennies were mixed up in jelly and topped with a creamy meringue.

Miss Maclennan works in a restaurant office and the pudding full of pennies was the work of the head chef.

Casualty List Names Nine

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—The army today issued the 62nd casualty list of the Korean war, reporting two men killed in action, another dead of wounds and six other injured.

The list brought to 328 the number of casualties suffered so far by the 25th Canadian Brigade in Korean action. They include 74 dead, 228 wounded, 25 injured and one missing.

The new list includes Pte. Harry Brydon, R.C.I.C., died of wounds, whose mother lives at White Rock; and A/Cpl. Dmytry Ivan Fodchuk, Lulu Island, wounded in action. All others were from Eastern Canada.

What of Their Jobs?

IF THE boilermakers' union which has struck Victoria shipyards does not come to its senses soon there is every likelihood that it will kill the industry which gives employment not only to its own members but also to a work force of some 1,200 men in allied trades. If the union doesn't believe that, it can't have been keeping abreast of developments on the industrial front here. Within the last week or so a manufacturing company which had been in successful operation in Victoria for 15 years was forced out of business because the high wage scales here in comparison with those ruling elsewhere in Canada made it impossible for the company to compete with eastern manufacturers. There was a warning in that which the boilermakers would be foolish to disregard.

Whether or not the boilermakers sincerely believe their current wage demands reasonable, the plain fact of the matter is that if they were granted shipyard work in Victoria would have to be priced so high that the possibility of future contracts coming this way would be virtually nil. Canadian shipyard wage scales now are approximately four times those of yards on the Clyde, and British Columbia wages average 30 per cent higher than those ruling in eastern shipyards. If it were not for defense contracts there would be little work for west coast yards even now. The boilermakers would be optimists indeed if they assumed that the government would go on awarding contracts here when it could get construction done far cheaper elsewhere.

As to the fairness or otherwise of the settlement for which the boilermakers are striking, here are the chief elements of the situation: All the other unions in west coast yards (including the boilermakers in Vancouver) have accepted increases in basic pay working out at about $350 a year for each man. The Victoria boilermakers are holding out for a basic scale $1,100 a year higher than the old rate, plus a variety of fringe benefits which the other unions did not get, such as a cost-of-living escalator clause, double pay for all overtime, time and a quarter for all repair work, and payment by management of 50 per cent of hospital insurance premiums.

To win these benefits for its own 458 members (only 210 of whom voted to strike) the boilermakers' union apparently is willing to see the 1,200 men of the local shipyard force thrown out of work. Perhaps the union does not care whether the industry survives or not; perhaps it does not care if the families shipbuilding supports have to move elsewhere. One wonders, though, what fair-minded labor men whose concern is for the welfare of the trade union movement as a whole must think of a situation such as this.

B.C. Cabinet Should Act

IF IT has not already done so by the time this appears, the B.C. Council of Public Instruction should make certain that there will be a general school holiday everywhere throughout the province in honor of the Royal visit, to apply in each school region on the day held most suitable. To do otherwise inevitably would mean that thousands of children of school age would not see the Royal couple at all, short of those "paraded" in a few centres where official welcomes have been arranged. The fear in some quarters that the children would take advantage of the holiday and play hookey from organized school welcomes is both groundless and unjust. No normal child would miss such a treat for worlds.

Even where there is no possibility of school children attending an official school ceremony a public school holiday should be given just the same. A great many parents would see to it that their children got to some centre where Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip will pass. In any event, the responsibility and the opportunity would then be on the part of the parents and not upon school boards. The precedent for this is overwhelming. A search of the records for decades back will show that school children have always had a holiday on the occasion of a Royal visit. Nor is there one good reason anywhere why things should be any different this time.

The Council of Public Instruction, that part of the provincial cabinet which has charge of school affairs, has still time to make its position clear in this regard. Its failure to do so has already caused wholly unnecessary confusion. It should declare a school holiday at the appropriate date in each centre where the Royal couple will visit, and a general school holiday on a fixed date everywhere else, even to the remotest corners of the province. Royal tours do not occur very often, and they have a special meaning for the youth of this land.

Why Not Copy the Idea Here?

WINNIPEG and other Manitoba citizens are being given a privilege this month many a Victoria housewife will envy. At civic elections in the prairie capital and other centres voters will be asked if they think manufacturers should be allowed to color margarine. The reply is expected to be a strong affirmative.

The idea is to face the Manitoba legislature, which imposed the ban and thus put housewives to a farcical and time-wasting domestic operation, with an overwhelming demand for repeal of a law passed only to placate an industry which not only fails to keep the market supplied with butter but also does some coloring itself.

A precisely similar situation of course exists here, where the legislature likewise bowed to pressure and deprived margarine manufacturers of the basic right to sell their product in any color they chose. As well, indeed, pass a law that requires every automobile to be painted blue, green or heliotrope—or left paintless because buses are colored.

The Winnipeg scheme might be worth following here. Municipal elections are two months away yet, so there would be ample time to arrange for similar referendums to be taken. The result would not necessarily be a foregone conclusion, but if public opinion against this unfair color ban is as strong as it was two years ago the B.C. legislature might be forced to change its stand and thereby give the housewife the square deal she deserves.

HOSPITALIZED VETERANS

Sir,—Since reading the letter re the disabled veterans and the Royal visit, it has caused me to stop to think and realize how easy it is to forget those who gave so much for their country.

I myself, a war bride, whose services during the war consisted of entertaining the forces, know just how much such a visit from the Royal couple would mean to the disabled veterans.

On E.N.S.A., every Sunday was set aside for hospital shows and believe me it took a lot of courage to go out on that stage and dance, when all in front of you were stretchers and amputees, and even harder to smile whilst performing; but the gratitude of the boys was really something, indeed we found sympathy was the last thing they were looking for.

How wonderful, then, it would be for these men who gave so very much, to have a visit from the Royal couple. Such a visit would, I'm sure, do more than all the doctors' medicines put together.

THE TRANSFERABLE VOTE

Sir,—How any surprise can be expressed at the result of the Esquimalt by-election is beyond conception of anyone who has given any thought to British Columbia politics.

If those forces which are supposed to represent free enterprise are to be divided in future elections as they were in Esquimalt, then British Columbia must face the future with the moral certainty that through a minority vote it will have a Socialist government. This will be so despite the "brave whistling" of the "go it alone boys" in both the Liberal and Conservative parties, who will find themselves in a divided opposition in the next legislature. The remedy will not lie in that naive device commonly known as the single transferable vote. It is somewhat amusing to note that C.C.F. speakers go to great pains to protest a measure which they know will be for the benefit of their own minority party. If anything is needed to insure their success, if the present division is continued it will be that miserably deceptive device which will permit the Socialists to "plump" and which will not ensure that the majority of the non-Socialist voters will do otherwise for their candidates or that they will not throw their alternative votes either to C.C.F. candidates or to Independents.

If a fourth party is organized and places candidates in any number of ridings that will even more seriously divide the non-Socialist votes and make it "just ducky" for the C.C.F.

I write of course, as a supporter of the principle behind Coalition and as a present supporter of the general policies of the government so long as it can be maintained, but the original Hart-Maitland formula is too rigid to be continued. The Coalition can only be maintained if that formula can be revised in such a manner as to ensure the people who call themselves Liberals and Conservatives are content that they are being given a proper voice in the selection of candidates. What must be done is to work out an arrangement which will not make Conservatives in Esquimalt riding feel bound to support a candidate who announced his willingness to run providing he was "acceptable to the Liberals," any more than Liberals in other ridings including Vancouver-Point Grey, South Okanagan, Mackenzie, etc., feel that they have no choice in the selection of the candidate they are expected to support.

ROBT. D. HARVEY.

ROYAL MENUS

Sir,—I read today with shocked horror the announcement that our Royal visitors will probably be fed "grain-fed chicken, salmon from the gulf, etc." at Eagle Crest. Oh, no, please. Anyone who has visited England during the last five years knows fowl, game and fish are the invariable main dish. Madam Speaker wrote recently that in six weeks in England this summer she never once saw a joint of meat.

Give your guests steaks, chops, legs of lamb, barons of beef, eggs and bacon, but please, no chicken, no fish, no game.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT would be the nostalgic influence of the Finlay-Wilson troupe, I suppose, that sharpened my accent. How else explain—this:

The morning after Tuesday night's bath of Scottish song I telephoned Fletcher's reservation desk, bent on booking seats for last night's repeat performance. I said only three words, thus:

"Are you handling——"

And a feminine voice cut in with: "No, the Wilson concert tickets are on sale at the Royal box-office."

And me a Canadian of 30 years' vintage!

The girl's guess was right, but really, you know, it was possible that I simply wanted to know if Fletcher's sold—mouth-organs.

Not that I was in the mood for a mouth-organ, or harmonica, as virtuosos like Larry Adler term this teasing appliance. Now if it had been an accordion; there's an instrument for you.

Especially in the hands of Will Starr, lithe, handsome in Black Watch trews, and with magic in his finger-tips. If there is a greater accordionist than this young maestro nobody ever heard of him. He plucks your heart-strings as easily as he sets your blood a-lilt.

* * *

This is a peculiarity of Scots music and song.

Take Alec Finlay, for example, billed as the pocket Harry Lauder but a comedian of the first water in his own right; nay, even a more versatile performer than his great mentor. With his short bandy legs Finlay is the typical Lowlander, and his humor is touched with characteristic pathos. But then of course the dividing line between laughter and tears is but a shadow.

Why, at the intermission one male member of the audience ran up to Cliff Denham in the theatre lobby and demanded tickets for the next show, the tears streaming down his cheeks. A Scots audience, you see, has to have a good greet to enjoy itself.

What the foreigners present last night thought of it all I don't know. It's something to savvy the word greet itself, for instance, let alone a reference to a coo which has nothing to do with bill and coo.

Sometimes I think braid Scots shouldn't have been invented. It's like Chaucer's tongue, it shuts out the multitude so that only the elect can follow the tales. Although anyone with eyes alone would get his money's worth out of this troupe.

Jings yes, as Alec Finlay might say.

* * *

There was Clara Kenyon, a bonnie lassie and a braw musician to boot. There was—how could it be otherwise—the lad Robert Wilson himself, spruce, rich of voice and a master showman. And tony Reg Fewings, a diffident but pleasing saxophonist, and plump Billy Dick, the master of ceremonies whose hair the barber cuts without disturbing his bonnet—his head being akin to the setting sun.

And, just to initiate the atmosphere, there were the pipers of the Canadian Scottish.

It's atmosphere that counts on a Scots night, you see. I imagine a stranger feels enveloped instantly—and I hope happily—for the clans are receptive and nostalgia does the rest.

But I must mention the kilt—as worn by Messrs. Wilson, Finlay, Fewings and Dick. Trim as could ever be. The front bisected the kneecap and the back was meticulously even, there was none of that droopy effect that faults the plaited petticoat Scotsmen call a kilt. They might have come out of a bandbox, these four patricians.

Well, it's all over for another year. That's for sure, as Will Starr amazed Alec Finlay by saying—the result of appearing in New York. But they'll be back again, and even if you are of the breed that doesn't know what a cloot is, make a point to see them next time.

It might help you to understand, too, how it is that three little words can put my clock back 30 years.

International Commentary . . .

New Form of International Anarchy

By W. N. EWER

LONDON.—With the British Government's appeal to the Security Council and the withdrawal of the British staff of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company from Abadan, the Anglo-Persian problem enters a new phase. It is a phase in which far wider issues begin to confront the United Nations and all its member states—issues which affect all relations between civilized and peacefully minded countries.

It is not a question, as is suggested in some quarters, of finding some formula, some phrasing of a resolution, which could find general approval in the council. It is no longer a question of the precise balance of merit or demerit in the rival arguments of Britain and Persia on immediate matters in dispute. Much bigger issues are now being raised and must be faced without evasion. The Persian government has already refused to acknowledge the jurisdiction, or to comply with the "indications" of the International Court of Justice. And all reports from Teheran suggest that it intends to deny the competence of the Security Council to intervene in any way.

* * *

Persia's refusal is based on the claim that the dispute is not between Persia and the United Kingdom but that, since it concerns a concession granted to a private company, it is a matter which is under paragraph 7 or Article 2 of the United Nations Charter "essentially within domestic jurisdiction" of the Persian state and that, therefore, neither the court nor council is entitled to intervene.

Now that is a perfectly arguable case. And the Persian government is perfectly entitled to argue it. But it appears to be claiming not only to argue it, but to decide it. That seems inadmissable, since, in the case of the court, paragraph 6 of Article 36 of the statute lays it down quite definitely that "in event of a dispute as to whether the court has jurisdiction, the matter shall be settled by the decision of the court", and that in the case of the council, the court is clearly also the body to decide the issue under paragraph 2 of Article 36 of the statute.

But this is not only a matter of the written law of statute and charter. There is an inherent challenge to the basic conceptions of the international system which we are all trying to build up. Those conceptions are: that armed force shall not be used by individual nations; that there shall be in the words of the charter, "respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law"; and that all disputes shall be settled either by amicable agreement between the parties, or, if that is not secured, by submission to some form of "third party judgment".

* * *

Nobody stands more to gain from this new system than the smaller and weaker nations. Under the old order they were, in the event of any dispute or quarrel of any kind with a great power, liable to be coerced by force of arms or by threat of it. One need only recall such incidents as the bombardment of Alexandria in 1881, the blockade of Venezuela in 1903, or the occupation of Vera Cruz in 1941.

But the great powers have pledged themselves not to use such methods any more: and the western powers have kept that pledge. That has been the reason for what many people here have regarded as "weakness" of British policy in the present trouble. It has not been "weakness". It has been determination to honor the obligation not to use force as an "instrument of policy" as a means of enforcing a settlement of international dispute.

But this acceptance of obligation not to use force assumes acceptance on the other side, on the part of smaller powers to accept "rule of law" and due processes of law. And it is this assumption which seems to be challenged by the action of the Persian government.

If, while strong powers refrain from "taking the law into their own hands", weaker powers are going to take advantage of that, and feeling themselves safe from coercion, are going to refuse recognition of any international authority, then we are in danger of sliding into a new form of international anarchy, in which no contracts are worth the paper they are written on, in which no dispute can be settled in a peaceful and civilized fashion, and in which normal relations with countries which adopt such an attitude will become well-nigh impossible.

* * *

That would be dangerous for everybody, but especially dangerous for such small powers themselves. For, sooner or later, provocation to some strong power would prove intolerable. Denied by the obduracy of some small power of any choice of obtaining justice by peaceful means, it would be driven to safeguard its rights by use of its own forces. And the old bad methods of the 19th century would return.

That is a possibility of which we are all loath to think. But it begins to loom as a possibility. The choice is necessarily between rule of law and some kind of international anarchy. And in any kind of quarrel the strong will use their strength. They may not use it either brutally or unjustly. But they will use it. For they will have no alternative, except the grotesque one of submitting to coercion by powers weaker than themselves.

That is the issue which begins to present itself—an issue far transcending in importance any question of British property in Persia. It is whether those basic principles of the new international order are going to be loyally accepted by the small powers as well as by the big, or whether, in the name of national sovereignty, some small powers are going to repudiate all forms of international authority. There cannot be two laws—one for the strong, another for the weak. The choice is between law and no law. And if there is to be no law, it is the weak who, whatever they may hope to gain in the short run, must in the long run be losers.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IT is when you revisit France in peace time that you realize one of the pleasantest customs the French-Canadian has retained, though centuries divide him from his Old Country, is the handshake.

Throughout French Canada, especially in the smaller cities and towns, you see the men everywhere meeting with an instinctive handshake, though they may be neighbors who greet each other every day of their lives.

In France, they do not hold the hand out chest high, effusively, as we do and as the English do. With us, a handshake is an infrequent and ceremonial business. The French handshake is as unceremonial a gesture as the human hand and arm can execute. The two Frenchmen meet, they approach close enough to each other to clasp hands without lifting the arm at all—but merely by moving the arm around to the front of the body. They press each other's hand briefly. They draw apart and proceed to sit down and be comfortable, or to chat, standing, without effusion.

I saw this un-ceremony at its best at a sidewalk cafe in France where I was sitting enjoying the company, all strangers to me, but all offering me speculative and kindly glances. I could have talked to any of them. There is no trouble speaking to a Frenchman. At a nearby wicker table, a middle-aged, stout businessman was sitting, drinking a tiny cup of coffee. Along came another man, pretty near his double in dress and bearing. The seated one struggled upright for that small, closes handclasp and then both sat down. They chatted for 15 minutes. Then the newcomer rose and left—without a handshake. Ten minutes later the same man returned. His friend again half rose to accept the handshake. And there they sat until I had to leave. Maybe the one who went away for a few minutes had telephoned and completed a business deal. Maybe he had made a date for them both. All I know is that the little handshake was faithfully exchanged, in accordance with the rules.

Policy of Marking Time

(From The Windsor Star)

OFTEN it looks as though we're more complacent in Canada about the steel situation than they are in the United States, although our industries depend upon American mills for a large percentage of the steel they require.

A few weeks back, Supply Minister C. D. Howe observed that in two years Canada will have licked its steel shortage, as a result of plant extensions now under way. Apparently the policy is to mark time for two years, and hope that the estimates won't fall short, as such estimates frequently do. In the United States, however, concern over the steel situation is maintained at a high pitch, as ways and means are sought to increase the supply.

The other day Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson told the United States' major steel producers that they'd just have to find ways to boost their output. This exhortation came despite the fact they're already producing at a record-breaking pace. And the steel men, in response to his urging, are trying to find ways to do better.

In Canada we need some of that drive and direction. The two years between us and sufficiency—if it will be sufficiency—is a long time to wait in a kind of smug satisfaction that everything possible is being done to deal with the shortage.

TRANSFUSION

It is said that the Scots, who for some mysterious reason love to hear stories about their own alleged national thrift, are really the originators of most Scottish jokes, but this one, coming from London, may be an exception. In a London hospital a woman was between life and death. To survive she must have three blood transfusions. A young Scotsman, who belonged to the same blood group, volunteered. After the first transfusion the woman, who was wealthy, gave the lad $50. After the second, she gave him $25. After the third, she just shook hands with him.

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—Representatives of beer licensees in Vancouver have requested modification of the regulations to enable them to sell beer at 5 cents a glass.

50 YEARS AGO—Another expedition is being formed in this city to search for the buried treasure of Cocos Island. The capital of the company is placed at $10,000.

85 YEARS AGO — Yesterday a number of gentlemen met to determine upon the most suitable mode of paying a parting tribute of respect to His Excellency Governor Kennedy, and agreed upon a ball in the chamber of the House of Assembly.

Princess Relaxes, Finds Going Easier

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip got right into the swing of Canadian life Thursday.

Canada's Royal tourists sampled the finest foods of all 10 provinces, cruised down the Rideau Canal, toured Ottawa River and then made a date with Viscount Alexander to attend a private party at Government House, highlighted by square dancing.

All the while, as they fitted neatly into the Canadian pattern, decorous Ottawa continued to let down its hair and bounce the echoes of cheers around its stately, flag-hung government buildings as the pair moved through a leisurely schedule on this second and last day of their stay here.

For Wednesday's arrival at this focus of the 31-day Royal tour, around 200,000 were congregated at different points in the capital. Thursday's crowds were no less boisterous, but thinner and well strung out. Biggest single turnout—an estimated 10,000—circled the hotel where they had the all-Canadian luncheon.

On this fourth day of British royalty's Canada-United States expedition, the demure Princess seemed to observers to have shaken off an early self-consciousness and to have fallen well into the free-and-easy attitude of the gay and relaxed Philip.

SPONTANEOUS SMILE

Her broad smile was breaking spontaneously. Her waves to the subjects-to-be, leaning over police lines for a closer glimpse of the Royal pair as they drove through town, had a bit more of a confident flourish. Philip, as he has done from the start at Montreal's Dorval airport Monday, continued to pour on the big and friendly smile that has made his enjoyment of the whole thing obvious.

A still-entranced Ottawa, coming around for a second helping of royalty after Wednesday's big welcome, took to it happily. From Government House to mid-town to the shores of the river, Canadians and many U.S. visitors followed the pair about until their departure at 1:06 a.m. E.S.T. for the start of their run through the rest of Ontario.

From here, they move slowly through the Ontario countryside with stops Friday at Cornwall, Brockville, Kingston, Belleville and Trenton before arriving at [illegible] p.m. E.S.T. for an evening and a day in that city. Toronto has the Prince and Princess to itself Friday night and all of Saturday, and a crowded schedule faces them.

TOUR OF COLLEGE

At Kingston, a high spot of the visit will be a tour through the Royal Military College, where officers are trained for Canada's three fighting services. At Trenton, they will inspect a big air training base. They fly to Toronto from Trenton.

The military aspect of those phases of the tour will be a big switch from Thursday, which saw the Royal guests given over largely to informal activities. Prince Philip turned out Thursday in ordinary clothes, after three days of appearances in naval dress uniform.

The Princess provided the style-conscious with two changes of dress, sticking to the one-color theme she has been using since Monday.

From the civic luncheon that followed a morning spent relaxing at Rideau Hall, the Princess wore what was officially described as a robin-red crepe dress with a softly-draped bodice and full skirt with small waistline. She also wore a long robin-red wool coat trimmed at the collar and sleeves with black velvet buttons.

JAUNTY HAT

Not listed in the official word from the entourage but very evident was a jaunty, side-draped felt bonnet matching the dress, and black gloves and black shoes.

For an evening reception of guests of the government in the swank Chateau Laurier Hotel, her apparel was stated officially to be a brown satin cocktail dress with large velvet applique flowers. There was a large bow effect in the front of the skirt.

For the public appearances the Duke of Edinburgh wore a double-breasted business suit in the shade of Edinburgh blue, with a quiet tie. He donned a topcoat in a lighter blue and carried, but didn't wear, a dark homburg hat.

Top Scientists Interest Duke In Private Talk

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—A group of 10 Canadian scientists went to Government House today for a private audience with the Duke of Edinburgh. They discussed scientific progress in this country, including atomic projects.

A Government House spokesman said the Duke, himself a fellow of the Royal Society of London and president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, had requested the audience. Invitations were sent to the Royal Society of Canada and the National Research Council.

The National Research Council group of three scientists was headed by Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the council, and included Dr. D. A. Keys, head of Canada's atomic energy development at Chalk River, Ont. The other N.R.C. man was Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, a council vice-president.

Those attending as representatives of the Royal Society of Canada included Dr. G. B. Reed of Queen's University, a vice-president of the society; Dr. W. H. Cook, honorary secretary; Dr. L. W. Lowlett, honorary treasurer; Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the defense research board; Dr. K. W. Neatby of the department of agriculture; Dr. G. S. Hume, a geological scientist and Dr. G. Herzberg, president of the physics section of the Royal Society.

Royal Pair Plant Maple, Oak Tree

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—The Royal couple planted two trees in Canadian soil today.

On the main driveway into Government House, home of the governor-general, Princess Elizabeth planted a maple.

About 10 feet away, Prince Philip planted an oak.

Toronto Market Volume Hits 7,500,000 Shares

By AP and CP

Sparked by strong demand for low-priced western oil, base metal and gold securities, the Toronto Stock Exchange Thursday recorded the greatest volume in its 17-year history.

More than 7,500,000 shares changed hands during the five-hour session to beat the previous high, set last Friday, by about 1,000,000 shares.

Advances in heavily-traded issues ranged from pennies to 35 cents.

Liquors and manufacturing companies mustered most support to form industrials' strongest sections. Constructions, steels and refining oils were firm while papers, foods, banks and retail stores turned mixed.

NEW YORK BULLISH

There was a flare of oldtime bullishness in the New York Stock Market as prices advanced comfortably in just about every section of the list.

The market started higher and continued up with scarcely a pause to close with a fillip in the final hour.

Buying roved easily from one group to another steels, rails, motors, aircrafts, motion pictures, radio-television, low-priced stocks, and a long list of miscellaneous issues.

The upturn snapped off a two-day fall and put the Associated Press average of 60 stocks up 40 cents at $101.10.

Volume came to 1,760,000 shares, about average for the week.

MONTREAL MIXED

Stocks prices settled into a narrowly mixed price path near the close on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market. Trading was moderate.

Plus and minus signs were about evenly divided after dwindling support took the edge from early advances. Chances were fractional.

VANCOUVER ACTIVE

Base metals and oil were mixed and golds were unchanged on Vancouver Stock Exchange with trading fairly active toward the close.

WINNIPEG FIRM

Most prices showed a firm undertone in trading in coarse grain futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

There was aggressive buying in oats and barley for commercial account, U.S. interests and export houses.

More Buying in Canada Urged By U.S. Commerce Secretary

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP)—Charles Sawyer, United States secretary of commerce, Thursday advocated more American purchases in Canada, and named aluminum as one of the items which might be bought here in greater quantity.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the American Life Convention, an organization of American and Canadian life insurance companies, he said his own department is urging that each of the three defense services place $100,000,000 worth of contracts in Canada during the current fiscal year.

It has, for instance, been suggested, he said, that Canada "take over a substantial portion of the manufacture of jeeps on the ground that this would relieve pressure in the United States and provide an alternative source of supply in case of atomic attack."

BACKS SEAWAY

He supported the St. Lawrence seaway and power project and stated that if congress does support a new bill which has been introduced on the matter, "it will in my opinion be of tremendous help economically and from the standpoint of the defense of the whole North American Continent."

Of the present state of Canadian-American trade, Mr. Sawyer said in part:

"Our exports to Canada during the first six months of 1951 amounted to $1,400,000,000, while our imports were $1,100,000,000. This deficit on the merchandise trade account cannot, if not made up in other ways, continue for a great length of time without economic consequences, and serious defense difficulties for both nations . . .

"One problem is what to buy. Many of the materials we need and are getting from Canada are in short supply in Canada also—copper, lead, nickel and zinc."

QUOTES TESTIMONY

Mr. Sawyer quoted from testimony which he gave last Feb. 7 to the House of Representatives subcommittee on monopoly, in which he said:

"All the information which has come to the national authority and other bureaus of my department indicates that the demand, both civil and military, for aluminum, will far exceed any present available supply — including everything which Canadians as well as Americans can supply. We should get all the aluminum we can, as fast as we can, as cheaply as we can, and from wherever we can."

Mr. Sawyer added:

"Any idea that we should try to promote the United States aluminum industry and hold back the same industry in Canada is contrary to the recent agreement (for co-ordinated defense production), contrary to the national interest from the standpoint of defense, and certainly contrary to the interests of both Canada and the United States."

SAMPLE HANDICAP

Giving an example of handicaps to trade, Mr. Sawyer said that in the United States there is a great shortage of frit, a granulated cobalt enamel-like coating for metal signs, whereas in Canada it is plentiful. He added:

"The sign makers of America would like to make the signs and ship them to Canada for coating. However, when the signs re-enter the United States, tariff requirements provide that they be taxed at the full value, not just the value added in Canada."

Buying Rush For Shares In Old Firm

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP)—Canadians have been buying shares of the Hudson's Bay Company from Britain in an unprecedented rush during the last few weeks, Vancouver brokers reported today.

No reason was given for the sudden interest in Canada's "first" firm by Dominion investors but bond houses estimated 10,000 to 15,000 shares have come across the Atlantic in the last three weeks.

Share values of H.B.C., which has 2,492,224 shares issued, have risen from around $11 a year ago to between $19 and $21 now.

One business man said the big stock movement of the company, established May 2, 1670, probably stems from the fact that the firm is one of the prairies' largest oil and gas land holders.

At one time, the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers into Hudson Bay controlled nearly all of central Canada. When this land was turned back to the government, H.B.C. retained control of a large amount of territory with the mineral rights intact.

Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas Company Ltd., in association with Continental Oil Company of Delaware, is one of the large exploration firms in the west today and has been successful in finding large gas fields.

Mining Notes

Dunvegan's promising nickel property is being examined by International Nickel.

Consolidated Quebec Gold has exercised its option to purchase 50,000 shares Emerald Glacier at 70 cents. Next option 367,833 shares at 80 cents payable Nov. 30.

By mid-1952 production of Falconbridge will be at annual rate of 30,000,000 pounds of nickel and 15,000,000 pounds of copper.

The ore situation at Hasaga is reported improving.

Drilling has commenced at Plateau Metals (B.C.) near Kamloops.

Earnings of Placer Development are being forecasted as $8 per share in 1952, $12 to $15 in 1953.

Estimated earnings of Lamaque for first eight months of 1951 are 15.67 cents per share. Teck-Hughes controls 80 per cent.

Ore reserves at Yale Lead & Zinc (B.C.) are reported at 233,000 tons; current net assets $280,000. Sinking fund to retire $400,000, 5 per cent first mortgage bonds will commence this year.

Deeper development discloses new ore at McIntrye Porcupine.

Initial dividend from United Keno is expected early in 1952.

Western Mines (B.C.) has taken over Ainsmore Consolidated, near Ainsworth, and 100-ton mill is expected to be in full production early in 1952.

Milling operations, 50 to 75 tons daily, have started at Tungsten Corporation, Great Slave Lake property.

Quesabe reports substantial interest taken in 11,000 acres potential oil and gas area in South Alberta.

Business Notes

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (CP) — Regular Saturday half-day sessions will resume Oct. 13 on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market. The Saturday sessions were dropped four months during the summer.

The Toronto Stock Exchange will follow with Saturday trading on Oct. 20. Both exchanges were originally scheduled for Saturday reopening Oct. 13, but due to the Royal tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh there will be a half-day holiday on the Toronto exchange Friday and it will be closed all day the following day.

* * *

NEW YORK, Oct 11 (CP) — Financial and commodity markets will be closed Friday, Columbus Day, throughout the United States. European exchanges will be open as usual.

London Market More Buoyant

LONDON, Oct. 11 (Reuters).—A short-lived burst of buying enthusiasm today gave buoyancy to many sections of the stock exchange.

Short-term operators took advantage of the facilities to trade for the new account, which begins next Tuesday and will cover the election period, to buy home stocks on a belief that a Conservative government will be elected.

Textiles, stores, electrical equipments and building issues posted useful gains at the opening, but later reacted slightly in the absence of follow-through.

Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 80s 9d; Boots Pure Drug 26s 3d; Canadian Pacific $75; Central Mining £2¾; Consolidated Gold Fields 52s 6d; Courtaulds 52s; Hudson's Bay Co. 158s 9d; Imperial Chemical 52s 3d; Imperial Tobacco 105s; Metal Box 55s 3d; Mexican Eagle 27s 9d; Rand Mines 145s.

Bonds: British 2½ per cent Consols £65⅞; British 3½ per cent War Loans £87 9/16; British Fundings 4's, 1960-1990, £103⅜.

LLOYDMINSTER, Sask., Oct. 11 (CP)—O. C. Yates, president of the Lloydminster Gas Company, said Wednesday that five wells have been added to the Lloydminster natural gas distribution system since June.

Foreign Exchange

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (CP). — The American dollar today closed at 5¼ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/32 from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.05¼ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94⅜, down 1/16 from Wednesday.

Defense Needs Undermine Civilian Firms

By The Canadian Press

In the United States, as in Canada, some industries are being hit as the country advances on its defense program.

The economy as a whole is operating at record, or near-record levels, but, in the words of the National Association of Purchasing Agents of the United States:

"Much of our civilian production capacity appears unsuited for conversion to present defense requirements, and this area of our industrial economy is beginning to suffer from lack of orders or from shortages of restricted materials for orders on hand."

And Manly Fleischmann, U.S. production administrator, says some casualties are possible among civilian manufacturing firms next year because of acute aluminum and copper shortages.

At the same time, the United States is faced, as in Canada, with a situation where inflation, or high prices, is a menace; but where any marked deflation, or drop in prices, if it were possible, would also likely be a major disaster, resulting in business failure and unemployment.

So both countries have to go along trying to control inflation; but knowing that it must remain, probably for a long time to come.

As Arthur A. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank, Dallas, Texas, said recently:

"No one now living will ever see the American dollar again buy what it did in 1940. We have gone quite a distance down inflation road and we can go much further—and likely will."

And James E. Shelton of Los Angeles, president of the American Bankers' Association, says that restraint on inflationary credit may be needed more than ever before as defense spending expands.

Prairie Farmers Rush To Reap Grain in Sun

EDMONTON, Oct. 11 (CP)—The western grain harvest proceeded at a fast clip Thursday as warm sunshine bathed the prairies.

"Farmers have been waiting two months for this kind of weather," said a Manitoba government official in Winnipeg.

In Saskatchewan, warm, windy weather produced the best possible drying conditions for soaked crops. The temperature pushed past 70.

Southern Alberta farmers worked through the night to take advantage of the fine weather. Binders and swathers are being used freely and on higher land combines are in action.

H. E. Wood, director of statistics for the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, said harvesting conditions have been ideal since Monday.

"By the end of this week, threshing will be completed in all but the northwestern part of the province."

The shortage of harvest help remained a problem in all three provinces.

At Prince Albert, Sask., members of the Minto hockey team volunteered to help.

In central Alberta, the harvest peak is expected this week-end. The National Employment Service appealed to Edmonton city workers to volunteer. Officials said district farmers will be on hand to transport volunteers to the fields for work Saturday and Sunday, and will provide transportation for the return Sunday night.

BONDS EASIER

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (CP).—Government of Canada issues were generally easier Thursday on the Montreal bond market, with a good demand for short-terms. On the corporate market, there was some interest in convertibles, but there were no features.

More Hearings Planned

Organizations unable to appear before the legislature's Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act inquiry board when it met in Victoria in August will have another chance to be heard during a one-day sitting at the legislative buildings Oct. 29.

Arthur Ash, board chairman, said the board would probably sit in Vancouver for a week, starting Nov. 5.

Mr. Ash is now in Royal Jubilee Hospital recovering from pneumonia which he contracted while returning from the inquiry board's hearings in Prince George and Prince Rupert.

P.C.'s Delay Annual Meeting Due to Visit

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP)—The annual meeting of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association, scheduled for Oct. 20, has been postponed because of the Royal visit.

A new date will be announced later. National party leader George Drew, will attend the meeting.

Fire Victims Find Friends Active Helpers

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Balcourt, Langford residents who lost everything but their lives when fire destroyed their home recently, have more friends than they knew about.

A fund was started by Langford residents to provide the Balcourts with household necessities and clothing. Two of the largest Victoria department stores have offered to help the couple.

"Anything that can be used—including clothes, and a stove—would be most welcome," said Mrs. James Fitzgerald, convener of a shower for the Balcourts in Langford Community Hall at 2 p.m. today.

C.C.F. Urges Extension Of Session

Members of the C.C.F. party have urged the provincial government to extend its special October session of the legislature.

In a strong letter to Premier Byron Johnson the Saanich C.C.F. council urged inclusion of "such vital issues as the B.C. Hospital Insurance, Buttle Lake and rising milk prices."

"British Columbians are demanding answers to these questions now, not three or four months from now and since they pay the wages of their elected representatives they have the right to ask for reasonable consideration of their wishes," the letter said.

According to government statements, the special session is to deal specifically with amendments to the Old Age Pensions Act.

Driver Given 30 Days in Jail

Argin Singh, 607 Manchester, charged with two infractions of his driver's licence, was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday.

Accused pleaded guilty to driving while his driver's licence was under suspension on Sept. 8 and making false statements when applying for his driver's licence on March 6.

James Proudfoot, prosecutor, reviewed the accused's past driving record. "This man is a menace on the highway," he said.

Argin Singh had 10 previous driving convictions which included two for drunken driving, one for driving while under suspension, two for driving without a driver's licence and five for speeding, Mr. Proudfoot said. They dated back to 1944.

Martin Jackson, 1315 Blanshard, charged with selling wine to an Indian, pleaded guilty and was fined $300 or three months in jail.

Police found 10 bottles of wine on the premises of the accused and four bottles of beer.

IN SEARCH OF UTOPIA

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—Taxes, living costs and noisy street cars among other things are proving too much for John Greenslon, 57. The stained-glass artisan is recruiting men and women to aid in establishing a co-operative village settlement, probably in New Guinea or the Torres Islands, north of Queensland.

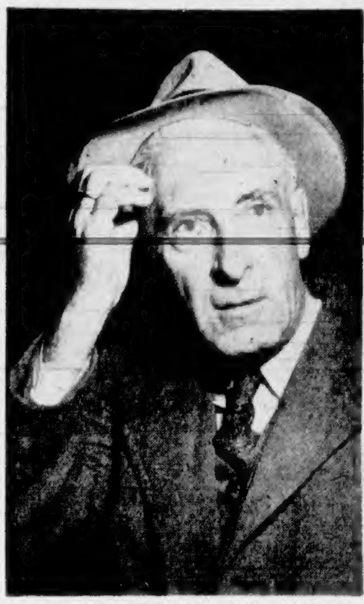
Patrick, Leger Ponder Cougar Chances This Season



Owner Lester Patrick scratches his head during practice session at Nanaimo as he ponders how this year's edition of Victoria Cougars will fare in defense of Pacific Coast Hockey League title and championship.

Coach Roger Leger wears stern expression as he puts club through stiff workout. Leger's main worry at moment is how to fit in new additions to form best combinations. Kid line will remain intact.

Evidence of pace of workout is shown by bemused expression of Jack McIntyre (left) and exhausted appearance of Bob Abbot (second from left) in dressing room after practice. Andy Hebenton (right) grins broadly as Bob Frampton (second from right) accuses Fiori Goegan (not shown) of holding him during practice. Cougars will make home debut against Seattle Ironmen at Memorial Arena tonight.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman.)

Red Wings, Habs Start Off Season In Winning Style

By The Canadian Press

The defending champion Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens opened the National Hockey League season in winning style Thursday night.

Detroit edged Boston Bruins 1-0 on Glen Skov's first-period goal. Canadiens rang up a 4-2 decision over Chicago Black Hawks.

In the game at Detroit, the Wings, flashing a puck-controlling offense, got their goal when Sid Abel dug the puck out of a corner and fired it to Ted Lindsay in front of the net. Lindsay's blast was deflected by Skov between goalie Jim Henry's legs. The Bruins had Lorne Ferguson in the penalty box at the time.

13TH STRAIGHT YEAR

It marked the 13th straight year the Wings had gone unbeaten in their opener.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion fired two goals for Canadiens and Maurice (Rocket) Richards and Jim MacPherson got one each in the curtain-raiser at Montreal. A crowd of 14,100 was on hand.

Richard's goal was the 293rd of his N.H.L. career.

Canadiens had a wide margin in the shooting, 37-18, and frequently sifted through the Hawks defense to pepper goalie Harry Lumley.

The Hawks were poorly off for subs, with Bill Gadsby, Max McNab and rookie Fred Hucul on the injured list. Canadiens were at full strength. One of their snappiest lines was the kid trio of Paul Masnick, Geoffrion and Paul Meger.

Number of Ex-Eagles on Seattle Team Gives Tonight's Game Playoff Touch

Victoria hockey fans will probably be reminded of last season's thrilling semi-final playoff between Victoria and Portland when the Cougars and Seattle Ironmen meet tonight in the Victoria P.C.H.L. opener at Memorial Arena.

The Cougars will present 10 of the players who skated to the league and play-off championships last spring while Ironmen will present a powerful line-up built around stars from the Eagles and last season's club.

Pleased at the unexpected developments which made it possible to open tonight, Cougar coach Roger Leger made no predictions but stated his team was ready for action.

He was unable to name a complete line-up but listed 14 starters. The club is permitted to dress 15 players including the goaltender. Leger will name the 15th player today, the selection lying between Bob Bowness, Dewar Thomson and Dugger McNeil.

Leger will pair with Leon Bouchard on one defense combination with Bernie Strongman and Fiori Goegan the other blue-line duo.

REMAIN INTACT

Up front, the Reg Abbott, Bob Frampton, Andy Hebenton trio will remain intact. Ed Dorohoy will likely centre Fred Hildebrand, moved back to left wing, and Jack McIntyre. Doug Anderson will work between Joe Evans and Joe Medynski and Leger is expecting big things of this threesome. He feels that Anderson will prove to be a competent player and credited him with the improved showing of the old "killer" line in the exhibition game at Nanaimo Wednesday.

Off to an unexpectedly shaky start, the Ironmen are justifiably one of the pre-season favorites despite a possible need for another good defenseman. A wealth of good forward line material is the chief strength of the Sound City crew.

Coach Tony Hemmerling has Portland's high-scoring combination of Walt Samanski, Larry Silvestri and George Homenuke back and they will be tough to stop. Another line has Frank Kubasek, another standout ex-Eagle, playing between holdover Joe Bell and Jim Fairburn, still another of the 1950-51 Portland club. The third line is centred by Dutch Delmonte, an experienced performer with Kansas City in the U.S.H.L. last season. His wings are Nick Tomiuk and Cal Stearns, who played in the P.C.H.L. with Portland and Seattle, respectively, two seasons back. Both were at Kansas City last season with Tomiuk seeing some service at New Haven in the A.H.L.

SATISFACTORY GOALIE

In goal, Freckles Little has proved more than satisfactory. He will be defended by Jack Jackson, who played with Denver last season; Bob Drainville, who played at Kansas City and is familiar to Victorians as a one-time defenseman with the Navy team during the war; and Joe Conn and veteran Danny Sprout, with Portland last season.

If Rudy Filion, smooth centre, and Petey Taillifer, defenseman, of last season's club come to terms, the Ironmen will be that much tougher. Stan Maxwell is reported to have hung up his skates.

Players will be introduced in a short pre-game ceremony and Alderman Frank Mulliner, acting mayor, will face off the first puck.

Fred Hutchinson, general manager of the Cougars, reported last night that plenty of good seats are available and urged season-ticket holders to pick up their tickets during the day at the club's Fort Street office to avoid a line-up at the arena.

Tickets will be sold at the club office until 5.30 this afternoon and arena ticket sales will commence at 7.30.

Hutchinson also reported that league president Al Leader will be on hand on Tuesday for the game against Saskatoon Quakers to officially present the Phil Henderson and Shipstad & Johnson trophies. Leger will receive the trophies on behalf of the club and will in turn present them to Mayor George.

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (INS)—Controlling interest in the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League was purchased Thursday by the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation, the hockey club's landlords.

Pays Off Series Bet Despite Strategy

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (AP).—The loss of bets on four straight world series is nothing to sneeze at—but Richard Schroeder did it just the same.

In paying off his bet after the Yankee victory yesterday, Schroeder set out, for the fourth year, to roll a roasted peanut across the Street in front of his tavern with his nose.

Halfway across, he discovered his annual betting companion, Maurice Tebeau, had sprinkled pepper on the street.

With time out for sneezing, Schroeder needed half an hour to complete the trip. Police were summoned to direct traffic through the crowd that gathered.

Central Saanich Pledges No Red Tape for Hunters

Saanich Peninsula is almost certain to be both busy and noisy at daybreak tomorrow. That's when pheasant and willow grouse become legal targets and pre-season reports have been encouraging. One hunter hopefully estimated that there are between 3,500 and 4,000 pheasants in territory adjacent to Victoria and this report will probably turn out a hunter for each bird.

Willow grouse have also been reported in hopeful numbers to the joy of hunters not having too much success with blue grouse.

Contrary to a published report, there will be no difficulty for hunters intending to seek something for the dinner table in Central Saanich. Chief Constable V. J. Lawley stated last night that all that was necessary was to obtain a permit to discharge firearms in the municipality. This permit can be obtained from the municipal office or from Lawley and needs no written permission from district farmers as had been reported.

However, while stating that Central Saanich officials did not intend to make things difficult for hunters, Lawley warned that "No Trespassing" signs meant that written permission was necessary to hunt on that property and violations could bring a charge. He asked the co-operation of hunters.

A permit to discharge firearms is also needed in Saanich, but hunters will find that most hunting territory will be barred to all except members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association. This group has made an agreement with district farmers and only members will be allowed to hunt on posted land. Members must first go to the farmer on whose land they plan to hunt and turn in their membership card or give proof of membership and leave their names before firing a shot. They will return to pick up their cards at the end of the day's shoot.

Bird Bag Limits

The pheasant season closes on Nov. 11. The daily bag limit is two, the possession limit four, and the season limit is 10. Tags, which can be purchased in cards of five or 10 at the game office on Elliott Street, are necessary and all birds must be tagged as soon as shot.

The willow grouse season extends to Oct. 31. The daily limit is two and the possession limit is four. The season bag limit for blue and willow grouse combined is 24.

Reports on deer hunting continue to be fair, with the Sooke-Jordan River area a steady producer. Game Warden Bob Sinclair reported that a five-hour check on the Island Highway Sunday disclosed 28 deer shot by hunters from Victoria and district. About half were forks.

From Bill Johnston comes the report that Victorians Tom Blackwood and Tom Zaccarelli shot a moose with a 46-inch spread during a hunting trip to Williams Lake, the largest of the season from that area. The huge animal weighed about 1,100 pounds.

Some hunters are bagging blue grouse but the birds are mostly to be found in high country, and hard work and a knowledge of the area are needed for success.

Few Catches Made

With most of the salmon at spawning grounds, fishing news is scarce. Cowichan Bay is a heartbreak these days with hundreds of good-sized coho jumping all over the place and few showing any interest in anglers' lures. A few have been taken this week on red and white bucktail flies. However, new runs are expected and there could be a flurry of action any day.

There has been some action off the breakwater recently, with grilse plentiful and a number of cohos providing fine sport. Dave Fyvie foul-hooked a 15-pounder Monday and was fortunate to bring his catch to the net. Out against the next day, he limited with good-sized grilse.

From Bucky Kennett comes the report that the Cowichan River is yielding some fine trout, particularly at the headwaters near Cowichan Lake. March brown, orange bucktail and teal and red and teal and orange flies have been the preferred lures.

Vic High Trounces Central

Cage Opening Featured By High Scoring Games

By IAN GLENDAY

High scoring games featured the opening of the Inter-High Junior Basketball League yesterday as all eight teams saw action.

At Vic High, the Fernwood boys trounced Central Junior High, 30-12, with Simpson potting eights points for the winners and Saggens seven for Central.

Vic High Blacks lost their opening to a strong Mount View squad, 36-19. Cameron played a sterling game to lead both clubs with 14 points.

Mount Douglas swamped a game but outclassed S. J. Willis entry, 54-13, with Thompson racking up 22 points for the winners.

At Esquimalt, the home team lost a toughy to Oak Bay, 24-18. Corbett led the Bays with eight points while Patterson dunked seven for the losers.

Mount View defeated Oak Bay, 32-29, in a senior exhibition game at Mount View. Christie Smith racked up 12 points for the Bays while Alan Snowsell netted 11 for the winners.

Line-ups follow:

Oak Bay—Corbett 8, McCready 4, Hawes 4, Creighton 6, Farmer, Hughes, Willis, Paynter 2, Greenwood, Yarborough, Cartridge, Little. Total, 24.

Out to Stretch Lead

Sternest Test of Season Faces United Tomorrow

Sternest test of the season faces Victoria United at Callister Park in Vancouver tomorrow. There the undefeated Coast Soccer League leaders will battle for first place with the powerful Firefighters.

Firefighters have won twice and lost twice while United has defeated North Shore and New Westminster Royals and accepted an unsatisfactory draw with Vancouver City in three starts—all at home. A Victoria win would mean a three-point bulge and firmly establish United as a threat. North Shore currently shares second place with Firemen but is idle tomorrow.

THREE CHANGES

Confident his improving crew can cope with the pre-season favorites, manager Tom Restell announced three line-up changes for the important engagement after last night's workout.

John Pickburn will return to partner Joe Robbins on the back line unless Sid Robbins, scheduled to return to centre half, is unable to play. Sid injured his knee last night but is expected to start.

The other change finds Stan Bob going back in at inside left in place of Don McGee.

The balance of the team remains unchanged from Saturday's game against Vancouver City. Red McMillan and Jack Robbins will flank Sid Robbins on the half line. Cedric Robb and Denny McGee will be on centre-forward Wally Milligan's right and Ab Travis will be at left wing. Bill Hope, Ken Sneddon, Don McGee and Bob Allen will be ready to step into action if needed.

United's hope of success will depend largely on the ability of the intermediate line to stay with the middle trio in Firefighters' attacking line. Smooth Frank Ambler has Dave Brown and Doug Greig as inside men and this threesome is the most feared in the league.

Alberni Files Casaba Entry

Composition of the Inter-City Basketball League was completed Thursday when Alberni Athletics filed official entry.

Other members of the six-team loop are Victoria Individuals, Vancouver Clover Leafs, Vancouver Eilers, Bellingham and Mount Vernon.

Alberni's team will be built around and coached by Harry Kermode.

Individuals will make their first start on Nov. 2 against Eilers at Vancouver. Their first home game will be Nov. 17 against Mount Vernon.

Vics Trounce Mt. View 29-0

Vic. High's senior "B" rugby team trounced a willing but inexperienced Mt. View squad 29-0 in the first game of the season at Vic High Wednesday. Forcing the play from the opening whistle, the Fernwood Road boys ran up a 17-0 score at the half and never looked back.

John Whan opened the scoring for Vic. High when he grabbed a loose ball and scored standing up. Dave Ashford booted the convert to leave the score 5-0. Whan raced over for one try and Ashford for two, including a long broken-field run, just before the half-time whistle sounded.

After the intermission it was a repeat performance as Whan, Ashford, Glenn Hawkins and Darcy de Hart crossed the line for Vics.

Saskatoon Makes Debut With 3-1 Win Over Royals

HOW THEY STAND

Vancouver	0	1	2	6	12	2
Edmonton	0	1	0	0	1	0
Calgary	0	1	0	1	7	0

Next games, tonight: Seattle at Victoria; Tacoma at Vancouver; Calgary at Edmonton.

The rugged schedule of five games in six days caught up with New Westminster Royals at Saskatoon last night.

The Royals dropped their first game of the season as the Saskatoon Quakers made their debut in the Pacific Coast Hockey League an auspicious one with a 3-1 triumph. A crowd of 3,000 saw the first professional game in Saskatoon in 19 years.

Royals were outshot 24-15, but goalie Lucien Dechene performed sensationally at times to hold the Quakers scoreless until Cy Rouse converted a pass from Ab McDougall at 4.39 of the second period. The goal matched one for Royals by Normie Kirk early in the first canto on a breakaway from a Saskatoon power play.

Neil Strain notched the winning goal midway through the second period on a three-way passing attack with Chuck McCullough and George Senick. Ken Hunter provided the clincher on a two-way break with Rouse early in the final session.

New Westminster — goal, Dechene; defense, Forbes, Boule, Bergeron, Roberge, Paul; forwards, Ullyot, Boyce, Dorohoy, Love, Pashoway, Lavell, Grubb, Kirk, Cabana.

Saskatoon — goal, Worsley; defense, Heindl, Milford, Parker, Kaiser, Brkiacich; forwards, McCullough, Senick, Strain, Hunter, McDougall, Rouse, Fowler, Mattson, Kaleta.

Officials—Dick Davis, Winnipeg, and Hedley McDonald, Saskatoon.

SUMMARY

First period: 1—New Westminster, Kirk (Lavell, Cabana) 7.20. Penalties—Kirk (3.16), Senick (18.18), Lavell (18.28).

Burgess Leads Vic High Team To Easy Win

Don Burgess, B.C. junior mile record holder from Victoria High School, set a fast pace for schoolmates and cadets as the Victoria High team defeated Royal Roads in a two and a half mile cross country race at the Naval College yesterday.

Burgess won handily over teammate Pete Kirchner with Dick Woods of Victoria High third and cadet Al Altwasser fourth. Teams were allowed an unlimited number of entrants and 35 runners took part.

The race served as a tune-up for the annual four-mile Royal Roads invitational race at which the host team will be defending champion.

Jack Kersey Again Head Of Boosters

Jack Kersey was re-elected president of the Cougar Booster Club at its annual meeting at Memorial Arena last night.

Other officers named were: George Heath, first vice-president; Frances Logan, second vice-president; Joe Coleman, secretary; Judy Arnold, treasurer; George Geddie, publicity, and Milderine Wood, Myrna Jenkins and Jerry Roberts, executive members.

The club will be registered under the B.C. Societies Act. Its aims are to boost the Cougars and Victoria at all home and away games of the Cougars and to provide assistance for the Victoria Minor Hockey Association. It is hoped to raise $1,000 for the V.M.H.A. by Dec. 1.

It was agreed to retain the popular practice of presenting cakes to members of the Cougars on their birthdays.

Membership fees were set at 50 cents for the coming season. Date and place of sale of membership cards and new red, white and blue booster buttons will be announced later.

Crusaders to Make Debut In Rugby Union Opener

The Victoria Rugby Union will begin league play at Macdonald Park tomorrow with a twin bill at 2.30. J.B.A.A. will meet Crusaders on the upper field and Oak Bay Wanderers will oppose Victoria College on the lower pitch.

Crusaders, a new addition to the league this year, will make their debut with a fleet-footed team [illegible] Calton, Hugh Burnett, John Campbell and John Shipley, all former Crimson Tide players.

J.B.A.A. coach Sid Gaunt will oppose the Crusaders with a hard-hitting forward wall, led by Ian and Harry Turner, Ed Bourke and John Poole of last season's Rep squad, and a fast-moving backfield, sparked by track stars Gordie and Garry Pynn.

STEADYING INFLUENCE

Little is known about the Victoria College line-up but the Vikings are expected to have most of last year's high school stars in action. The team is coached this year by Keith Macdonald, former U.B.C. and Victoria Rep player, and his presence in the line-up should be a steadying influence on the younger players.

Dick Ellis, former Rowing Club and U.B.C. Thunderbird player, is coach of Wanderers this year and he may be included in the line-up tomorrow. The team is [illegible] Jim Mill of last season's Crimson Tide; "Sidge" Richardson, high school star last year; Tom Varty, ex-Vindex and U.B.C. player, and Walt Pumfrey, former American football star with U.B.C. Other team members are: Bill Stinson, John Jefferies, Colin Blyth, Ron Hurly, Bruce McLaren, Bob Bayne, Tom Wartt, Don Barton, Ed Estlin and Jack Utting.

The five players who walked off the field in protest during the seven-aside tournament last week have been reinstated on condition that they file written apologies with the president. The executive warned that any recurrence of the incident will be severely dealt with but no penalty was meted out this time because the incident took place in an exhibition game.

To Grapple Here

FRANK STOJACK
Former world light-heavyweight wrestling champion, Stojack will match holds with Juan Humberto in semi-final of regular weekly card at Bay Street Armory tomorrow. Chief Thunderbird will oppose John Cretoria in main event and George Strickland will grapple Bill Dero in special bout. Two local grapplers will mix in opener at 8.30 p.m.

Norma Stewart New Captain Of Swim Clubs

Norma Stewart was chosen senior women's captain to succeed Joan Parnell at a social and meeting of the Y.M.C.A. senior and junior swim clubs Wednesday evening.

Jack Todd, Bob Johnstone, Marj Naysmith, Rita Norbury, Garth Anderson and Marilyn Naysmith volunteered to form a [illegible] the club in the annual "Y" membership drive.

The secretary was instructed to write several clubs in the northwest and arrange dual meets for the winter.

A film on swimming, featuring former U.S. Olympic aces Nanci Merki and Sue Zimmerman, was shown and refreshments were served. Similar meetings and socials will be held monthly during the winter.

It was decided to separate practice sessions for seniors and juniors, starting next Wednesday. Juniors will start workouts at 7 p.m. and seniors at 8 p.m.

Kingston Club Ousted After Probe

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP)—Under wraps for seven months, a hockey scandal involving 16 men was ripped wide open today—the official opening of the 1951-52 season. When the air cleared, one senior B club was written off the books.

Charged with throwing a four-game playoff series to Peterborough last spring the manager and coach of Kingston Nylons were suspended for life by the Ontario Hockey Association. Two players were suspended for two years and one-year suspensions were tacked onto another 12 [illegible]

The O.H.A., ruling body of amateur hockey in the province, announced the penalties today after sub-committee interviewed the officials and players here Wednesday night. Those suspended were:

Life: Manager D. L. McKnight and Coach George Patterson.

Two years: Players Rawlind Aitken and Edward Plumb.

One year: Players Jack Stone, Ken Murphy, Walter Gerow, Ken Partis, Jack McKeown, Freddy Harrison, Joe Watts, Glynn Udall, Robert Joyce, Kenny Potts, Douglas Patterson and Jack Armstrong.

Two other players—Joey Catlin and Bob Londry—were exonerated. They did not attend an alleged meeting when arrangements were said to have been made to throw the series.

Manager McKnight termed the action the "most unjust and apparently pre-arranged decision I have ever seen."

"We were given five minutes to answer questions and no opportunity to present any defense. As there is no opportunity to appeal to the O.H.A., consideration is being given to court action," he said.

MEET TONIGHT

The Victoria Referees and Judges Association will hold a meeting at the St. James Hotel at 7:30 tonight.

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Notice that the heels are close together, the stance wide open in the short iron shot pictured and don't fail to observe that the ball is played well back of centre so that you can swing down into the ball taking divot after impact. Hitting the ball in this way is necessary to give the correct flight to the shot. In the highly lofted clubs, the impact comes before the clubhead is at the low point of the swing. The taking of a divot, of course, has no effect upon the flight of the ball since it will have already departed on its errand, but since the correct swing calls for the club to contact ball before the club reaches the low point of the swing, a divot is unavoidable on the follow through.

Lone Sailor Relates Trans-Pacific Story

Most young men dream about sailing off around the world to romantic places.

Rotarians at yesterday's club luncheon heard a man tell them how it can be done if you have a 43-foot schooner, "lots of patience" and confidence in yourself.

In a simple, straightforward address, Jacques Markwalder, Swiss-born marine adventurer, told of a trip which took him single-handed way around the world.

"You just lash the tiller, point where you want to go and turn in when you're tired," said the slightly-built sailor.

TOOK YEAR AND A HALF

Mr. Markwalder sailed from Sydney, Australia, in 1949 and arrived in Victoria almost 1½ years later. He sailed his "Te Hongi" first to Tahiti, the Christmas Islands and then to Honolulu, where he stayed six months.

He then headed for San Diego, arriving in 29 days. After a stay in the American port he came to the northwest in another 29 days.

He said yesterday he first started out with a companion [illegible] he didn't get along very well.

"I guess that's how most single-handed sailors get to be single-handed," he laughed.

Mr. Markwalder was introduced by Rotarian Roy Denny.

SALT SOURCE

The Turks and Caicos Islands, 450 miles northeast of Jamaica, have long been one of the world's greatest producers of salt.

Civic Irresponsibility Rapped

"Canadians must be prepared to fight very hard to keep the good qualities of democracy," said Dawson Gordon, president of Nanaimo Kiwanis, at a joint meeting of the Nanaimo and Oak Bay clubs last night.

"The important sense of responsibility to our country is ebbing," Mr. Gordon said. "Lower standards of work are resulting and there is even a lack of responsibility in our members of parliament."

The Nanaimo Kiwanis member led a sing-song. Plans were discussed for the Kiwanis bonfire on Hallowe'en, Oct. 31, in which 100 pounds of candy and 1,000 hotdogs will be distributed to children. The bonfire will be held near the Oak Bay Fire Hall.

OXFORD, England (CP) — Criticism of bureaucracy by C. Kent Wright, two clerk of London's Stoke Newington district: "Centralization has two great dangers, apathy at the circumference and apoplexy at the centre."

New! Revolutionary!
Hazel Bishop's Amazingly Lasting Lipstick Stays On and On until You Take It Off!

Now yours! At last—the lipstick of your dreams! The first and only color-true lipstick you can put on in the morning or evening, and forget about! Now say goodbye to unsightly "red grease" on glasses, chinf, silverware, cigarettes, chin and teeth. Never again need you be embarrassed by smearing friends, children, relatives, husband, sweetheart. Hazel Bishop's sensational, satin-smooth, Lasting Lipstick keeps your mouth looking as radiant, fresh, and colorful as when first applied—even when you eat, bite your lips, or kiss!
More economical, too! Lasts 4 to 5 times longer than other lipsticks, because you need use it only once or twice daily—rarely more often!

Today's deal is not for experts. It is presented as a sort of reductio ad absurdum to show how careless or unthinking some players are.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 H	Pass	2 S	Pass
3 S	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 H	Pass	6 H	Pass
Pass	Pass

North-South were lucky in not landing at a six-spade contract, since a bad guess in the spade suit would have left the declarer helpless. On second thought, however, North wasn't so lucky at that, because South made a very bad guess at his actual heart slam!

West opened the club jack. South drew trumps, then confidently laid down the ace of spades and led the spade five to his own king. When West showed out, South acted as though there had never been a 4-1 break in the history of bridge, and instead of making a very easy recovery, he said disgustedly: "I guess I have to give up a spade and a diamond." The opponents politely refrained from questioning this statement.

It goes without saying that South did not have to concede defeat even after the spade break was revealed. The opponents could not possibly win two tricks if South proceeded properly. All he had to do was eliminate clubs from both hands by shing those cards, then exit with the singleton diamond. If West won the diamond trick, he would have to permit a spade discard and a ruff by returning a diamond or a club; if East took the diamond, he would be in no better position.

Another extremely simple way for South to make the hand was to draw trumps, cash the clubs and lead the diamond. Then whichever defender returned a spade, South was assured of all the spade tricks.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

MR. CHUCK'S HOLE

Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods to his hollow stump bungalow one day. The jolly rabbit gentleman with the pink, twinkling nose, was carrying a basket of potatoes. He had dug the potatoes in his potato field and had thrown three of them at three teasing foxes, making them run away.

Suddenly Mr. Longears heard a loud whistle like this:

"WHEE-E-E-E-E-E!"

The rabbit gentleman stopped so quickly that he juggled a potato out of his basket. Then he whispered, "I wonder who whistled at me? I don't believe it was Chief, the police dog, for he isn't around here."

Once again the whistle sounded:

"WHEE-E-E-E-E-E!"

Uncle Wiggily looked all around amid the trees and bushes but he saw no one. Then he said to himself, "I wonder if that could be my pink nose whistling instead of twinkling? I wonder?" Mr. Longears made his pink nose twinkle very fast. But there was no sound of a whistle from it.

"So it couldn't have been my nose," thought the bunny uncle. "I wonder if it could be—"

Once again the whistle sounded:

Again Uncle Wiggily looked around amid the trees and bushes of the woods but he saw no one.

"It must be," said Mr. Longears, out aloud, "it must be that the three foxes have come back after me and my potatoes."

"Oh, no, Wiggily, you jolly old rabbit!" exclaimed a voice. "I am not a fox."

"Who are you?" asked Mr. Longears, feeling better now that he knew it was not a fox that has whistled. "Who are you?"

"I am surprised that you don't know my whistle, Wiggy," the voice went on. "Listen! I'll whistle again."

Once more the whistle sounded:

"Now do you know me?" the voice asked.

"Yes, I think you are Buster, my Rabbit Scout," replied Uncle Wiggily. "Come, Buster and please help me carry the basket of potatoes."

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" the voice laughed. "Well, this is not Buster whistling. I will give you another chance. Listen!"

Uncle Wiggily listened and heard a sound such as an owl makes when he clatters his beak to scare away a hawk bird.

"Do you know who made that clattering noise, Wiggy?" the voice asked.

"Yes, I do," replied the rabbit gentleman. "That was Bunty winding up the spring in her talking, singing doll."

"Ha! ha! ha! laughed the voice again. "No, no! I am not Bunty. But, since you don't know my whistle nor my clatter, I must show you who I am. Look!" Out of the bushes popped Mr. Chuck, the groundhog daddy of Woodie and Waddie Chuck.

"Oh, Mr. Chuck!" I am so glad it is you," said Uncle Wiggily. "What are you doing here?"

"I am looking for a hole," answered Mr. Chuck. "Last spring I started to dig a new burrow to live in this winter. But I did not finish. I only dug a hole in the ground. Now I am coming back to dig the hole deeper and make a new burrow. What are you doing here, Wiggy?"

"I am on my way home with some potatoes for Nurse Jane," said Mr. Longears. "Will you have a few."

"Yes, I would like some potatoes," answered Mr. Chuck. "But first I must find that hole."

"I will help you look for it," kindly offered Uncle Wiggily, setting down the basket of potatoes. So the two friends looked for the groundhog's hole and then, all of a sudden, something happened.

I will tell you about it tomorrow if the picture post card doesn't jump out of the letter box so the postman can't find it to take it to the pussy cat in the doghouse.

By RITA DEL MAR

FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 12, 1951

Today's quotation: "Love's like the measles—all the worse when it comes late in life."—Jerrold.

Friday for everyone: Complete tasks, solve problems, promote private interests, be secretive. Pursue duties and obligations conscientiously, but avoid a tendency to confusion, misunderstandings, or involvements.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below:

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Adopt ideas, methods which increase the worth of your service. Don't waste time efforts.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Make concessions; avert negative relations with acquaintances, dear ones. Be economical.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—"Wind up" a matter. Take care of responsibilities. Be thrifty.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Strengthen agreements with others; gain more friendly relations. Avoid worry, misunderstandings.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Make necessary financial revisions, but be sure of their practicality. Eliminate wasteful angles.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—You gain by exerting personality, logic, reason. Sidestep unpleasantness with others.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Be calm in tackling chores or in the business scene. Solve problems; seek tidings; savings.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Express your views to those you are fond of. Avoid tension, extravagance. Don't lose, mislay things.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Your efforts are being noticed. Improve standing and seek headways, but don't kid yourself or others.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Be alert; listen to what those about you say, but discount hearsay or gossip.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Strengthen financial standing. Be ready to meet others half way; sidestep waste.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Be systematic. Organize efforts efficiently. Allow time for things to work out.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: October 16, 17, 19, 21, 23, 25, 26, evenings of 27 and 28; 29, 30.

Infantry Band to Lead Artillery Honor Guard

Inter-service relations between the infantry and the artillery may be slightly strained during the Royal visit to victoria on Monday, Oct. 22.

Present plans call for a 100-man army guard of honor to parade in front of the Legislative Buildings to take the salute and be inspected by the Royal couple.

The honor guard will comprise artillerymen from Gordon Head and Work Point Barracks.

Dressed in battledress and carrying rifles, they are expected to present a smart appearance under the direction of Major W. H. Cook, commander of a local battery.

But leading the parade and wearing scarlet and gold and kilts will be the regimental brass band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) under the direction of Lieut. John Tamblyn.

PLAY FOR SALUTE

Besides lending color to the parade, the infantrymen will play for the Royal salute and incidental music while the Legislative Buildings are inspected by the Royal couple.

An infantry band leading an artillery unit is unusual in Victoria, but it is believed the artillery band does not have the necessary dress uniforms for the occasion.

Leaves City Sunday

PTE. D. O. MILLS

Youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Mills, 930 Tattersall Drive, will leave Victoria on Sunday for Valcartier, Que., to rejoin his unit in the 27th Brigade which will soon be leaving for Europe.

City Scots Howl Rollicking Approval As Compatriots Stage Repeat Show

By EILEEN LEAROYD

It was Scots wha' hae'd their way again last night for the rollicking repeat performance of star artists "direct from Bonnie Scotland" at the Royal Theatre last night.

If anyone in the audience hailed from south of the Clyde it was not apparent as the hall rocked with hoots and triumphant clan yells in enthusiastic approval of the show.

When each performer was introduced by Neil Kirk as coming from Dundee, or Perth or Aberdeen or Glasgow, sections of the audience called "aye that's a fine place!" or "so do we!"

The crowd needed no urging when Kirk said: "You might as well enjoy yourselves, for we've got your money now."

Will Starr, accordionist, opened the sparkling show with a medley of jigs, reels and hornpipes. The faster his fingers flew over his instrument the louder were the cheers from the hall.

Star of the show, comedian Alec Finlay brought down the house with his hilarious skits and drole mimicry. But it was singer Will Starr with his rousing rendition of "Road to the Isles" who really crystallized the spirit of the gathering.

Pipes actually did skirl for the opening of the show when the first battalion pipe band, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) played three stirring tunes.

It could be said that Victorians at the Royal Theatre last night will not forget the artists from "Bonnie Scotland," but it might be safe to add that it is doubtful if the artists will soon forget their lusty, sentimental audience.

Young Liberals Request News Of Party Policy

Victoria Young Liberals will urge the federal association to formulate a definite party platform and inform all Liberals of the party's views, in a resolution to be presented at the national convention of Young Liberals in Vancouver on Nov. 8, 9 and 10.

Victoria Young Liberals met last night to draft resolutions to the convention and name delegates.

Chosen to attend the Vancouver meeting are D. E. Anderson and John Coates, with Clyde Elford and Miss Cathie Shaw as alternates.

Other resolutions to be presented by the Victoria group call for:

Speedy creation of a distinctive Canadian flag by the federal government.

Universal military training of Canadian youth.

Transfer of jurisdiction over divorce matters to provincial courts, so that the laws can be modified to suit the people of each province.

Amendment of the Criminal Code to allow reputable organizations to run supervised lotteries for charity.

All statutory holidays to be held on the Monday following the actual date.

Inclusion of Langford, Sooke, Jordan River and surrounding areas in the Victoria federal riding rather than the Nanaimo riding, because of their proximity to Victoria.

Quick Repairs Proposed For Leaking Arena Roof

A suggestion that repairs to the barrel section of the Memorial Arena roof, which is leaking at the present time, be made soon in order to save a large bill later, was made recently by L. Cartwright, director of Insul-Mastic Products Ltd.

In a previous report it was stated that some work done by Insul-Mastic on the Arena roof was unsatisfactory.

Replying to the report, Mr. Cartwright, in a letter to H. Whittaker, architect of the building, said: "Having inspected the roof of the Arena we find that the part not covered with Insul-Mastic is badly cracked in most of the bays. The leaks in the roof are coming in from six to eight feet from where Insul-Mastic treatment left off."

Mr. Cartwright recommended that the flat decks on the upper and lower part of the roof be built up with hot ashphalt, to make sure of a satisfactory leak-proof roof.

A. Bartlett Dies, Aged 79

Albert Goodwin Bartlett, born in this city 79 years ago, died in Prince Rupert yesterday after a three-year illness. He was employed on Grand Trunk Pacific Railway construction and had lived in Prince Rupert since 1919.

His father, John Bartlett, settled in this city nearly 100 years ago after service with the Royal Navy.

In Collision Three Times

A car driven by a city man was in collision with three other cars, each a block apart, within minutes yesterday.

At approximately 5.15 p.m. a car driven by Gerald F. Aylward, 900 Park Boulevard, was in collision on Quadra near Pandora with a car driven by Grant Paterson, 2842 The Rise. The Aylward car then collided with a parked car near the corner of Johnson and Quadra and then, witnesses say, collided with an unidentified car at the corner of Quadra and Yates.

City police say that damage to Aylward's and two other cars was moderate and damage to the fourth unknown.

Woman Receives Minor Injuries

Mrs. Helen Albion, 3850 Epsom, received minor injuries yesterday when the car in which she was riding jumped a culvert and careened onto a boulevard at the corner of Blenkinsop and Tattersal.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400.

Two trucks and a car were involved in an accident on Douglas Street in front of Saanich Fire Hall at 10.40 a.m. According to Saanich police, a truck driven by Arlo William Mabley, Sidney, while attempting to pass a truck driven by Frank Charles Briers, 320 Beachwood, was in collision both with the Briers truck and a car driven by Henry Edgar Stubbings, 1560 Rockland. There was no damage to the Mabley truck. Damage to the other two vehicles was listed as medium.

A car driven by Arthur Copes of Vancouver was almost totally destroyed yesterday afternoon when it overturned on Tunnel Hill on the Island Highway.

Heifer's Owner Gets Trophy

Kathleen Nicolson receives a cup from J. J. Woods, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton, for the best yearling heifer shown by any member of the Saanich Jersey Calf Club at Saanich Fair. Other winners among the 10 members of the club were Belinda Brooks, who won a proficiency award and Dick Aylard, for showing the best calf in the club. The club received its initial start from E. M. Streight, former superintendent of the experimental farm, in 1930.—(Photo by Robin Clarke.)

Fraud Victim Clarifies Inquiry Dissatisfaction

W. A. Scott, recently defrauded of $9,000 by Clyde Gillies, now in the penitentiary, has written a letter to the chairman and members of the Victoria police commission clarifying his reasons for dissatisfaction with the investigation just concluded.

Main points of the letter were:

That aid from the police had been asked as Mr. Scott's private investigations "on behalf of the victims and the public" had gone as far as they could.

That police aid was requested to find out how much money and property had been involved in the swindles.

That Mr. Scott wanted a complete search into records of the land registry office to find out what other properties had been handled and transferred by Gillies and for what financial consideration.

Mr. Scott added that he had asked police assistance because he had wanted questions asked before the public regarding those who had received the money, apart from Gillies and J. Percival Walls, also now in prison. If those persons had not been able to give a satisfactory account of their part in transactions, he believed charges should be laid against them as co-conspirators of Gillies and Walls.

He concluded that there appeared to be many "unsatisfactory aspects" of one of the Walls' trials and that he had protested to the Crown prosecutor that Walls' defense was being paid by Gillies.

He claimed that perjury and fraud took place during the trial.

U.S. House-Senate conferees in Washington have approved a $5,750,000,000 tax increase bill, raising personal income levies by an average 11½ per cent, effective Nov. 1. The over-all boost is one of the largest in U.S. history.

In addition to income taxes, the average man will pay more taxwise for whisky, cigarettes, beer, gasoline, cars and mechanical pencils, fountain pens and cigarette lighters. Compensatory note: The average U.S. citizen will also pay 10 per cent less tax for telegrams and for baseballs and baseball equipment.

Ring, Money Stolen From Suite

Theft of $13 and a diamond ring valued at $100 was reported yesterday by Athalie Little, 1901 Stanley.

According to Miss Little, the money and ring were contained in a purse which she left on a table near an open window in her basement suite. The purse was returned, empty yesterday by a group of children who found it in nearby bushes.
